Acknowledgments

I would like to express my genuine appreciation to my supervisors, Prof. John Wakefield, Prof. Kenneth Kong, Dr. Winnie Chor and all the reviewers of this study for their expert guidance, encouragement, and support during the research journey. Your constructive and insightful feedback has greatly contributed to enhancing the quality of my research.

Special thanks go to my parents for their unwavering love and care, as well as to my two elder sisters for their understanding and unconditional support. They have always been there for me, encouraging me to pursue my dreams. I would also like to express gratitude to my dear friends, whose companionship colors my life.

Some content in this book has appeared in journals in 2020. Chapter 4 was reported in Health Communication with the title "Evaluating the Communication of Online Social Support: A Mixed-Methods Analysis of Structure and Content", and Chap. 7 has been partially reported in Communication & Medicine with the title "Psychotherapeutic Potential of Online Self-Help Groups: Innovative Moments in Thread Openers' Narratives". Adaptations have been made when they were included in the book.
